

TechShastra - The Technical Society

Introduction:

TechShastra- the Technical Society is a non-profit making society to organize Technical Events. The dictum of TechShastra is to help the students to gain knowledge and experience in technical education, programming languages, problem-solving and project management. Technical events provide the students with an opportunity to implement peer mentoring and what they learn in their respective classrooms. It is a great platform that merely focuses on the augmentation of technical and industry-specific skills of the students as nearly every job relies on different tools, software, programmes and processes. Hence, the TechShastra aims at the development of career and personality of students via helping them to gain practical as well as theoretical technical knowledge .
